Four years of increasing contact with his peers and responsible adults help to transform a bewildered teenager into a maturing young adult. Through educational experience, the student's perspective broadens intellectually, emotionally, physically, and socially, enabling the student to meet life with certain self-reliance and appreciation of its complexities.

Among the many able and talented people at Woburn High School, we feel there is one who consistently demonstrates the highest teaching standards. His classroom has an atmosphere in which discussion is stimulated and the student is given the opportunity to express himself and develop as an individual. He is a teacher who has deep interest in his students, often reviewing subject matter with them on an individual basis or discussing their interests with them after school hours.

This teacher is also active in extracurricular and community activities. His concern for the community is displayed in his participation in organizations whose prupose it is to improve and aid the city through educational and charitable programs.

A deeply motivated and highly principled individual, we know of no one more respected or worthy of our emulation. With great pleasure, we dedicate the 1968 INNITOU to . . .

In Memoriam

MR. JOHN MAHONEY

Mr. John Mahoney was associated with the Woburn Public school system for most of his adult life.

Serving as the administrative secretary for the Superintendant of Schools, Mr. Mahoney later became registrar of the Woburn Senior High School.

Whenever consulted, he could be depended upon to give freely of his time and effort to both students and teachers. Mr. John Mahoney has left an indelible mark upon the minds of all who have come in contact with him, and the students of Woburn High School have shown their gratitude by awarding him the Dedication of the 1960 Innitou.

MR. WILFRED WALSH

Mr. Wilfred Walsh was a teacher of Graphic Arts in the Woburn schools for over twenty-five years and for the last five years he was the coordinator of the Practical Arts Departments of Woburn Senior High and Kennedy Junior High School. During his tenure of office he was also Director of Athletics for the Junior High School and served as Director of Athletics in the Senior High School during World War II.

In his youth he was an ardent athlete with his strongest interest in hockey and as he grew older followed the Woburn High School hockey team in all of its games. He was extremely interested in all youth and by personal example served as an excellent model. The gymnasium at the Memorial Junior High School has been named in honor of Wilfred A. Walsh and a bronze plaque installed there to commemorate his name.

MR. WALTER CARROLL

Mr. Walter Carroll was a teacher in the Kennedy Junior High School for many years, but through an intense interest in sports he became associated with underclassmen at Woburn High School as the coach of freshman baseball. Mr. Carroll also coached the American Legion teams, and directed youth recreational programs. He gained the admiration and respect of all students who came in contact with him. A firm believer in competitive athletics, Mr. Carroll inspired his boys in sports and in life to play the game fairly.

MESSAGE TO THE CLASS OF 1968:

Each year it is with great pride that I write a message to the graduating class. It is, in a sense, the sort of pride an artist must feel looking at his canvas, or an author upon completion of his novel, or a sculptor who has molded a fine object. My pride, however, must be shared with many others—your parents, teachers, and religious instructors. All have had a share in molding your ideals, beliefs and habits, the sum of which produced your character. If at the age of six you had entered a school in some foreign land whose principles were totally different from our democratic traditions, you today would have an entirely different concept of the meaning of life. You would have been taught that the State, not God, is supreme, and that it is the masses, not the individual, that is important.

Your graduation from High School into this turbulent world would indeed look dim if it were not for the bright light of Faith—faith in yourself, faith in your country, and above all, faith in an eternal and all loving God.

That is the torch which we of an older generation are putting into your hands. Carry it always, and hold it high.

The subject matter which you have been taught is secondary to those principles of democracy and good citizenship which your teachers have made the keynote of all their classes. It is our prayer that in whatever endeavor you may pursue, you will never compromise with these ideals; that through your efforts, and those of all the other graduating classes, our Country will remain "one nation, under God, with liberty and justice for all.

Dr. J. Frank Hassett
Superintendent of Schools

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1968:

The eve of graduation in June, 1968, is a time for formulating plans and looking to the future. That has always been the pattern of the youth and, happily, it fills us all with hope.

Yet this time of parting is also an occasion for reflection and introspection, on our objectives in life after these years of preparation. The society and culture in which we live is far different from the relativiely simple school days of past generations. The issues of our way of life and the problems of the late sixties have become a part of your training and daily association and not an excercise in the groves of academe.

If one characteristic could describe the graduating class in 1968, we would judge it to be its social awareness. This immediate and deep concern by youth for the future of all humanity is reflected in its plans for service to mankind. It bodes well for the future.

It is a recognition of the ideal that the future of each is bound inextricably with the future of all mankind, so admirably expressed by John Donne, the greatest of the metaphysical poets:

"No man is an Island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main . . . I am involved in Mankind. And therefore never seek to know for whom the bells toll; it tolls for thee."

May the successful achievement of your present goal be a portent of a happy life and a useful one to your fellow man.

The communications center and the command post of the entire school is the Main Office. Through the switchboard calls are dispatched by the dedicated secretaries, Elizabeth Doherty and Louise Clark. Their other duties include arranging appointments, compiling "The Reflector" and disseminating information to the students and teachers.

The Data Processing Center has revolutionized the system of keeping the complex records of over 2000 students. No longer do teachers and administrative personnel have to labor for hours preparing attendance records, warning cards, and report cards. An IBM computer has been programmed to handle this work.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burke, the Data Processing co-ordinator, is responsible for the smooth functioning of this department and is ably aided by the Business Education students who are receiving valuable on-the-job training.

HELEN A. SALMON

Miss Helen A. Salmon, Dean of Girls, is an important member of the faculty & Administration. As a math teacher, an advisor to the National Honor Society, the selector of the Women's Club representatives and a member of the Scholastic Rating Board, Miss Salmon plays a vital role in the academic and extracurricular life at Woburn High School.

Long a member of the staff, Miss Salmon is well known and respected by both the staff and students. As the Dean of Girls Miss Salmon oversees the code of dress. Her taste and good judgment enable her to make fair and accurate decisions regarding acceptable fashions. Friendly & interesting, Miss Salmon is always available for advice and aid to both the faculty and students at Woburn High School.

The quality of learning depends on the state of health. Student health is cared for by two very efficient nurses, Mrs. Lillian Kerns, and a new addition to the staff, Mrs. Phyllis Lentz. With Mrs. Lentz's aid and assistance, the burden of the work for Mrs. Kerns has considerably lessened. Together, these nurses have not only aided in combating illness and injury, but have also provided for the general physical welfare of the students.

This past year, preventive nursing and health counciling have been stressed by both nurses. Mr. Kerns feels that the student must be considered; personally, emotionally, mentally, and socially in order to provide for his welfare. Thus every student is seen privately at least once during the school year. As in past years, the students' hearing and vision were tested and the time TB test administered.

Guidance Initiates Revolving System

Today, more than ever, each student must strive to complete his high school education. Our Guidance Department believes that every student should work to his ultimate capacity. The student's own energy and initiative are directed by the efforts of the guidance officers.

Periodically, the student and his guidance counselor meet to discuss his present status and future plans. Through these meetings the student is helped to identify a goal in life. The counselors then devise a plan leading to the achievement of his goal.

To insure closer contact with students, a revolving system of counselors has been arranged by the department. This system provides that the same counselors accompany the class throughout the four years of high school life.

At the present time the ratio of student to counselor is approximately 400:1. This conforms to the state regulation, and added counselors will help to narrow the ratio, further benefiting the student, as each counselor's talents will be concentrated on guiding fewer students.

Self-discipline Attained Through Naval Science

A new addition to the many courses of study offered to the boys of Woburn High School was the recently formed Naval Science Department.

The purpose of the Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps Program is to develop leadership and responsibility among the young Cadets of our high school.

The regular classes, are held twice weekly, and are conducted by retired officers and enlisted men of the United States Navy and Marine Corps. These class meetings feature exploration into such subjects as Naval Seapower, Naval Customs and Traditions Organization of the Navy, and other topics of benefit to a future service man.

Many classes were conducted on the parade grounds, where the cadets were instructed in the basics of close-order drill and the manual of arms.

Under the direction of Captain George L. Street, the program was launched successfully and gave evidence of being a valuable asset to the course of study.

Efficiency Stressed In Business Education

The Business Education Department, through various courses, offers preparation to all students interested in pursuing successful careers after graduation. In all phases of the Business Department, efficiency is stressed by teachers, since accurate typists, bookkeepers, and accountants are in great demand in every business. Often, courses are tailored to meet the individual needs of the students' occupational interests. The co-operative distributive education classes afford the students a chance to meet people and gain practical experience in their selective fields. Ample opportunity for success awaits the graduate of the Business Department in all related fields.

More Students Are Receiving Art Instruction

More students are receiving art instruction this year than in years past. The Art Department, under the inspired direction of Mr. Frank Newark and Mr. T. H. Johnson, provides students with the facilities to develop their own personal skills and introduces to them new and different phases in Art.

Due to the already overcrowded classes, the Department was forced to turn away many students who had hoped to enroll in the Art program, but with increased facilities and the establishment of effective coordination, more students than ever will be enabled to partake of this enriching discipline.

The Science Department

This year the Physical Science and Biological Science Departments were combined into the Science Department. Many advances in laboratory equipment and techniques have increased the complexity of the learning process in the sciences, and laboratory classes helped to supplement the material covered in the classroom. Class discussions and individual research increase the student's curiosity and desire to learn.

The student's inquisitiveness and interest may expand into subjects not discussed in class. It is into this realm that the annual Science Fair delves. The fair allows the student to demonstrate his knowledge of a particular subject, apart from the classroom, that is of interest to him.

The success of the many advanced science groups, such as Advance Placement Chemistry and Biology and the Chemstudy and PSSC Physics courses, have led the administration to contemplate the installation of an Advanced Placement Physics course next year. Such accelerated groups stimulate a greater interest in sciences than many other factors because in these courses the student can study scientific phenomena through contact with his classmates and with the world of nature.

New Programs Develop Insight Into Mathematics

The Math Department is constantly improving and expanding in order to keep up with the rapidly growing field of mathematics. The goal of the Math Department is to heighten the students' awareness of math in the modern world.

Three programs especially reflect the changing mood of the Math Department—the math team, the Advanced Placement course, and Math 13. The math team, formed last year, gives interested and capable students a chance to use their mathematical skills in competition with students from surrounding communities. This year the team has moved into a different division, and its record is markedly improved over last year's.

The Advanced Placement math course, which was also instituted last year, is a college level course in elementary calculus. It provides students with the opportunity to omit the freshman year of math in college, if at the end of the course, the A.P. exam is successfully completed. Last year, of the three who took this exam, all were able to omit a college semester of math. Math 13, a new course this year, is offered as an alternative to A.P. math. It is an analysis course with a very modern point of view.

These special programs, along with the teachers' desire to bring the mathematical world close to the students, serve to achieve the goal of the Math Department.

Library Resources Continue To Grow

Miss Helen Sheeran and Mrs. Mary Kinch, of the library staff, strive to help the library work to benefit and fulfill the needs of each student.

This year, a microfilm reader was added to the facilities already available in the library. Currently, the New York Times is delivered to the library of microfilm. Next year, the librarians hope to obtain on microfilm some of the periodicals to which the library subscribes. In the near future, the librarians hope to establish a listening room where students would be allowed to hear recordings and watch filmstrips which would help to increase their knowledge.

This year, as in the past two years, the library has received many new books, audio-visual materials, and records through grants made by the federal government. There are enlarged record and filmstrip collections and a published bulletin to the faculty, listing the materials available for further aid to teachers.

The English Department: Innovations In Compositions

Mr. Paul Murphy, Head of the English Department, during recent years has been quite concerned about the uniform teaching of writing in our school which has led to widespread restudy of instructional programs in composition.

This concern has brought about experimental programs for teaching rhetoric and writing, much educational research, and the development of new ideas for teaching materials.

Much of the concern has resulted in vigorous attempts to achieve a greater professional consensus on what constitutes good writing!

Pupils reading their own themes, instructors' use of overhead projectors and group commentary on individual writing are innovations included in this phase of curriculum development. Selected themes annotated by teachers are models for analysis and discussion. These new ideas serve as a stimulus in evaluation. The methods should provide a helpful basis for classroom discussion and departmental workshops and, in the future, pay dividends to the student.

The Foreign Language Dept: Widens The Student's Scope

The Foreign Language Department, supervised by Miss Rosemary Kehoe, has initiated programs to familiarize students with the culture and literature of other countries. Along with the daily courses in foreign languages, each language group has its own club in which members strive to learn more in those areas of the language that interest them most. The foreign language department offers advanced courses for those students who complete the regular four year course. In addition, Saturday language lab classes are offered both for the beginner as well as the advanced student.

All of these programs are designed to give each student the opportunity to learn and understand the language and culture of other nations. The early years of the student are aimed at giving the student a competent background in grammar, oral recitation, and aural comprehension of the language in order that he may be capable of understanding that country's literature. The later years are spent in studying the country's novels, plays, art, and social system.

Change And Expansion Emphasized

Change and expansion characterized the Music Department this year. Instruction in the basics of music was supplemented by exposure to the works of the masters in an attempt to help the student refine his taste for music.

For the interested student, specialized groups abound. By participating in the band or the various choral groups, the student gains a sense of responsibility, pride, and achievement. By appearing at civic affairs, the student is impressed with the opportunities for active participation in later life.

Federal Grant Broadens Social Studies Spectrum

How can an individual find his way in the maze of contemporary society which places social, economic, political, and ideological obstacles in his way? This is one of the challenges which the social studies student faces. Armed with the foreknowledge that such obstacles will exist and given the skills to understand why some of them exist, how some can be broken down, and how others can be circumvented, the young adult at Woburn Senior High School will be better able to find his place in society, and become a constructive, contributing member of that society.

To enable the social studies faculty and students to accomplish their goals the department has been awarded for the second time a Federal grant of several thousand dollars which has been used to purchase additional audio-visual equipment and materials as well as supplementary reading materials in the areas of Anthropology, Sociology, and World Cultures.

Physical Education, A Vital Part Of Student Life

In order to keep each student physically fit and to make each student aware of healthful activities to fill his leisure time, the Physical Education Department offers an interesting and varied program. Supplementing varsity competition in the major sports, a modified version of regulation football, basketball, volleyball, soccer, tennis, archery, field hockey, and softball are taught to the girls in gym class. A variety of intramural sports encourages the values of sportsmanship and competition. The winning teams are awarded letters and trophies at an annual banquet.

Keeping each boy physically fit not only now, but also in later life, is the main objective of the boys' athletic program. Golf, tennis, volleyball, wrestling, gymnastics, and weight training are some of the activities in which the boys are instructed.

The importance of carry over sports is stressed in both sections of the Physical Education Department. By learning the fundamentals of these sports now, each student will be capable of improving his skill and using his leisure time healthfully in his adult life.

Preparation For Future Life

With increased emphasis on creativity, the Home Economics Department helps girls to develop new talents and prepares them for lives in their own homes.

The programs offered to the girls include the basics of cooking and sewing and direction in various levels of family living in which a girl learns to understand her problems and realize her responsibilities. Child care and personal hygiene teach a girl good grooming and the essentials of caring for a newborn.

In addition to classwork, the Home Economics Department offers the Hi-Teen Fashion Club to interested Senior girls. A varied and original program that included Home Economics, a Simplicity fashion show, and a Christmas tea highlighted this year's activities.

The combination of basic skills, nutrition, and psychological background enriches a girl and enables her to take her place in society and lead a fruitful and happy life.

Industrial Arts Continually Updated

Drafting, Home Maintenance, Power Mechanics and Sheet Metal, Graphic Arts, and Woodworking are the specialties to which the student is introduced in the Industrial Arts program.

Architectural Drawing offers an insight into the ever expanding field of architecture, for the process of design development and construction of a scale model house, students are exposed to structural codes, building codes, and alternate methods of construction.

Knowledge of and skill in house layout, design, construction, and repair encompasses the Home Maintenance course. A construction unit enables direct observance and practice in usage of construction materials and their application. In the house structure built, house wiring, piping, drywall interior, finish siding, ceramic tile, and brick work are topics that are stressed.

The Mechanics shop is a combination of basic sheet metal layout and fabrication as well as auto mechanics. Welding and machine techniques are also practiced in addition to the theory and practice of engine operation.

Graphic Arts is concerned with the materials, tools, processes, and inventions of the industry. Students are encouraged to explore and participate in the many graphic arts rather than to strive for skill and efficiency in any one area. Many worthwhile projects have been completed on an individual basis as well as those which have saved the school and community several thousands of dollars.

A student in the Woodworking shop learns the proper selection of materials for the projected job, care and safe usage of power tools, and techniques in the fabricating of aesthetically pleasing and practical wood structures.

"A Sunset Paradise", on May 12, 1967, introduced the Class of 1968 to its first formal dance. A large mural in hues of yellow, orange, and red covered a wall of the cafeteria and represented the theme of the dance. A miniature fountain, a cafe, and palm trees heightened the illusion of an island paradise.

During the evening, each couple took part in a receiving line and the Grand March. Each girl received a charm depicting "A Sunset Paradise" with its sun and moon. Near the end of the evening, Valerie Murdza was chosen queen by the faculty wives and was escorted to the throne by Junior Class President, James Dwyer.

As the last strains of the last song were played, contentment and enjoyment was evident of the faces of the departing guests, already enjoying pleasant memories of "A Sunset Paradise."

Class Elections

As the final results were announced to an excited student body, one of the highlights of the school year, Class elections, was over.

This year, results of several contests were among the closest in many years; in two cases the contests were determined by only two votes.

Through the elections, students were able to learn about the democratic process. By signing nomination papers, hearing speeches, and campaigning for their favorite candidate, the students gained first-hand knowledge of how elections are run.

CHORALEERS celebrate Christmas with a song.

Concert Choir

On December 20, the choral organization of Woburn High School presented "The Sounds of Christmas", an evening of fine Christmas music under the direction of Mr. Robert Hodgson. The cast of nearly 100 delighted a large audience with selections portraying the many moods of the holiday season.

The expanded Concert Choir presented new carols in different languages. The Mystic Men's Glee Club of Winchester appeared as special guests, combining with the Choir in finale to perform Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah."

The Choraleers, who have become so popular at Woburn High, delivered a medley of popular favorites in the new, modern style. The Choraleers have gained much recognition during the last year with their many concerts for civic and social organizations in the community. Other activities of the 35 member troup include school assemblies for Veteran's Day, Christmas, Memorial Day, the annual Spring Concert, and this year, the Black and Orange Review.

The Booster Dance

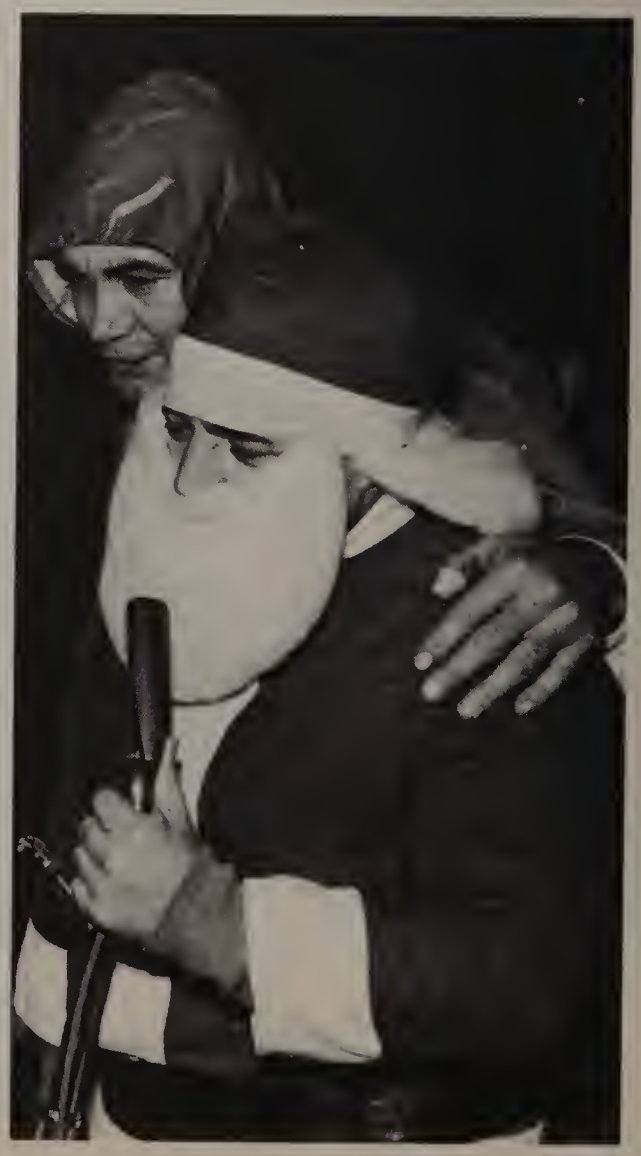

Each year the student council holds a Booster Dance to support the football team. This year Walter White addressed the students for the last time in the capacity of coach. Paul O'Shea also spoke to the students about the upcoming game and their hopes for a victory. The football team displayed their physical prowess as babies and eccentric athletes. Two new additions to the Booster Dance were the young go-go girls and the Waterproof Tinkertoy, a student rock group. The spirit and enthusiasum of a 11 those in attendance added to the success of the evening.

Portrait of Christmas

..On December 15, 1967, the class of 1968 presented its Christmas Dance, the "Portrait of Christmas" in the upper-school cafeteria.

As the guests arrived, they entered through a large green wreath of evergreens into the cafeteria imaginatively decorated to depict a rural shopping area.

The evening commenced with the guests meeting the hosts and hostesses, followed by the Grand March, and ended with the lighting of the Christmas tree. The versatile music which helped set the mood of the occasion was provided by Dick Errico's orchestra.

Eleven o'clock arrived all too soon, the dance ended, bringing to a happy close the Seniors' first social event of the year.

"CARE for a cinnamon bun?"

DENNIS escapes his pursuers.

"APRIL, you didn't! Did you?"

Senior Play

Presented for two nights, the 19th and 20th of January, the Senior Play, Home Sweet Homicide, proved to be most enjoyable. Mr. Edson Kimball's dedicated cast paved the way for the evening's success.

Janis Spencer (the ingenious meddler), Thomas Cleaves (the troublesome early teenager), and Susan Murray (the sophisticated elder daughter), played offspring of mystery writer-mother Angela Koutroubas and all joined forces to foil the police, solve the murder and provide a husband for their widowed mother.

Laughter and suspense alternated to provide for one of the more memorable events of the season.

Bearded Mark Gaffney, a retired Army colonel, evoked a balanced reaction of pity and horror. Sharon Landers gave a gratifying performance as his loyal partner.

Especially effective was the creative design of the set which imaginatively portrayed an attempted murder against the strains of a rock and roll beat while teens danced and enjoyed themselves at a summer party.

Right ultimately prevailed, however, as the police lieutenant, aptly portrayed by Dave Phalon, aided the children in capturing the villain, and winning for himself a wife, while his dynamic partner, Steven Tringale, lent valuable assistance in giving advice on the art of child-rearing—". . . I should know, I raised nine of me own."

"JUST give me the facts!"

"OH, my goodness!"

"NOW remember, children, keep out of this."

"I feel sick!"

Originality And Diversity Apparent In Three One Act Plays.

Written by members of the Scribes, and produced and directed by members of the Drama Guild, the Guild's presentation was the culmination of prodigious creative effort.

"This Is Murder", by Sally Ross, was a comedy concerning three derelicts and their attempts to rob and murder a man in his own home. Two of the awards presented by the Guild were won by the members of the crew; Henry Scipione—Best Actor, and Dana Farrell—Best Director.

Paul Trusten's "Patterns", a tragedy concerned with the Spencer family's gradual deterioration and demise, had the main characters moving in puppet-like fashion, chillingly representing man's mechanical way of living his life. Beth Perry garnered the Best Actress award for her compelling performance.

"Communications", by William Foley, the final production, dealt with a psychiatrist's efforts to help the mentally ill. Ironically, at the play's conclusion, the physician discovered that it was he, not his patients, who was ill. Awards presented at the close of the evening went to William Foley—Best Playwright, Ralph Frongillo—Best Supporting Actor, and Sheila Murphy—Best Supporting Actress. In addition, "Communications" was selected to represent the school in the regional One-Act Play competition.

Student Council

Participating in more activities than ever before, the Student Council provided its members with many opportunities to participate in and observe the varied functions in a society. Council members conducted the class elections and aided municipal officials at the polls during the city elections.

Social functions of the Council included sponsorship of the Thanksgiving Booster Dance, where a rock and roll band performed for the first time at a school dance. In addition, the Council sponsored the eagerly awaited Mother-Daughter Banquet held in March.

Demonstrating their interest in local politics, council members regularly attended School Committee meetings. In the high school, the council enacted newer laws governing student life, including an activities point program and a uniform set of election rules.

Business Girls Increase Knowledge Of Business World

Providing opportunities for the senior girls in Business Education to develop an esprit de corps among themselves, a chance to increase their knowledge of business ethics and practices, an opportunity to perform charitable services for the school and community, and, finally, to socialize and gain pleasure in each others company are the goals of the Business Education Club.

In the course of the year, the members were visited by varied and interesting speakers, among whom was Mr. Robert Hutchens of the Avco Company, who spoke to them of the careers in Data Processing. At another meeting Mr. Timothy F. Ring discussed the opportunities available for part time education after graduation.

At Christmas time the members attended a party where Christmas Carols and refreshments were enjoyed. A highlight of the holiday season was a visit to the Home for Little Wanderers where members spread joy through giving many toys and gifts.

The program for the year concluded in May when the club members met for the last time for morning coffee with all the teachers in the Business Education Department.

Preparation And Knowledge Toward Teaching Career

Through the efforts of the Future Teacher's Club, students are better prepared for and more knowledgeable in their choice of teaching as a career. Junior and Senior members have the opportunity to practice teach at the elementary level, a valuable and stimulating experience.

Social activities for the year included the Christmas Party at which new members were inducted, and the Spring Tea at which newly elected officers for the coming year were announced.

SPANISH CLUB: Mrs. Judith LaBlanc, Jackie Winn, Ronald Neal, Noreen Loughman, Mrs. Maria Meyers.

Spanish Club

This year the Spanish Club is under the direction of a new advisor—Mrs. Meyer.

She has done a tremendous job in organizing the Spanish Club, in such a short period of time since taking over in December. On December 21, 1967, the Spanish Club, in co-operation with the German Club, held a very successful Cake Sale. Part of the money raised from this Cake Sale will be given to an outstanding Senior Student of Spanish, in the form of a scholarship.

The Spanish Club also plans to make a donation to an American Sponsored Charity for South American schools, (this money will go towards desperately needed school equipment or supplies). There are also several outings planned for, by the Spanish Club this year. Some of which include: going to see a Spanish Ballet Troupe perform, eating at a Spanish restaurant, visiting a Spanish Art Gallery and the Isabella Stuart Gardener Museum. And finally there will be the annual Club Party, which everyone is looking forward to. All in all, this proves to be a very exciting year for the Spanish Club, 1968.

IS it very interesting, Janice?

Russian Club

Members found an especially interesting Russian Club this year. Not only could an interested student observe historical and modern Russia, increase his knowledge and understanding of the country and its culture, and participate in the various activities, but this year he had the advantage of first-hand information. Miss Elizabeth Condon, the Club's advisor, returned this year from her work at an Industrial Design Exhibit in Russia. She brought home with her many slides and fascinating stores.

Among its activities this year the Russian Club enjoyed an excursion to the Russian Exhibit presented by Boston College, sponsored a successful cake sale, and participated in the international Christmas party.

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS: Miss Hutchings, (Advisor), Diane Kenney (President), Kristine Johnson (Treasurer), Linda Luisi (Secretary), Mary Ann Cardarelli, Mrs. Doris Coris (Advisor), Miss Rhoda Greenspan (Adviser).

The French Club

The French Club offers to students the opportunity to enrich their cultural background in a deeper knowledge of France by a variety of activities. Those held this year included a cake sale, and a Christmas social at which Miss Marie Pazola and Miss Elizabeth Condon showed slides of their trips to France and Russia respectively. Members also participated in a pen-pal program with students in France. One of the highlights of the year, a gourmet dinner at a French restaurant, was held in the spring.

CAKE SALE provides extra money.

GERMAN CLUB OFFICERS: Mrs. Gabriele Street (Advisor) Mary Lage, John Papadonis, Thomas Cleaves, Karen Symth.

German Club

Students interested in furthering their knowledge of German customs and culture find interests in the German Club. Among its various activities this year, the club participated in an international Christmas party, held a cake sale, and enjoyed their major outing of the year—an excursion to the Tivoli festival.

Involvement In Service Projects

Boys from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes in good academic standing with a wide range of interests and an unselfish desire to help others are united in the Key Club.

Close contact is maintained with the parent organization, the Kiwanis, through a reciprocal agreement whereby every Tuesday evening two Key Clubbers attend the Kiwanis dinner, while two Kiwanians visit the Key Club.

The preparation and sale of football programs is one of the most extensive and valuable projects as proceeds from their sale finances the service projects in which the club is engaged. In its eighteenth year, the club members are proud of furthering the tradition of selfless service to the community.

Classics Club

"Classical" denotes excellence of the highest degree in the fields of literature and art. It is the aim of the Classics Club to introduce its members to these various works. This had been carried out by lectures and field trips. This year the club visited various museums and also viewed "Gone With The Wind."

The Future Nurses Club aims to show girls interested in the field of nursing various aspects of the nurse's work. Through guest lecturers and field trips the members have learned about such topics as X-rays and operating technique.

The club also heard nursing students speak on their experiences in adjusting to school and work. All this provided many opportunities for interested students to learn about the health field.

THE W.H.S. Band under the direction of Mr. Edson Kimball.

Talent And Spirit Prove Worthy Of Merit

Again this year, under the direction of Mr. Edson Kimball, Woburn High's band and orchestra made excellent presentations at many school activities. Not only did the band encourage our football team by its performances at the games and rallies, but also it reflected upon Woburn High's competence by its exhibitions in local parades. The orchestra made many meritable renditions of musical composition throughout the year—the Christmas Concert, the Senior Play, Prize Speaking Contest, and numerous assemblies.

Eleven colorful and spirited female members of the Senior High filled the crowd and teams with enthusiasm at our inter-scholastic competitions. The cheerleaders never lost their pep and inspiration—not even during the downpour at the Thanksgiving Day game. Accompanying the band and cheerleaders in the support of our football squad were the Majorettes, Color Guard, and Emblem Bearers, all demonstrating Woburn High's precision and spirit on the field.

Enthusiasm Sparks Talent

For those students who are interested in folk music, the Folksinging Club, under the direction of Miss Rhoda Greenspan, keeps abreast of the current happenings in the folk music world. Many diversified discussions are held concerning all phases of this field of music. On other occasions, the members bring their instruments to the meetings and have their own informal hootenanny. Enthusiastic members allow this club to maintain its status as one of the more active clubs in the school.

BILL FOLEY leads the club in folksong.

Chess Club Developes Intellect

The Chess Club, under the supervision of Mr. Kaufman, developes discipline and concentration in its participants. The Chess Club instructs students in and explains the strategies of the game. The basic skills of chess, self-discipline and critical appraisals of difficult situations will aid in all fields of the student's interests and provide as well as stimulate recreation in later life.

An Active Year For The Choraleers

The Choraleers, directed this year by Mr. Robert Hodgson, has been broadened to include participation in all major student assemblies, the Public Speaking Contest, the Spring Concert, and the Black and Orange Review. Plans for the future include more concerts and tours.

A special touring group of the Choraleers was selected from the larger fifty member choir to represent the school at functions within the local and neighboring communities. The group gave a Christmas concert at the Lions Club and were acclaimed for their talent and enthusiasm.

Numerous Trips Provide Cultural Enrichment For The Art Guild.

The Art Guild, under the direction of Mr. Frank Newark and Mr. Theodore Johnson, enabled students to enrich their knowledge and appreciation of art by visiting museums and exhibits throughout the year. The Guild took its annual trip to the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln, Mass. Trips to other museums were made whenever possible. This year, as in years past, members of the Guild helped to design and paint the scenery for the Three-One-Act-Plays. The last project of the year was the presentation of the Annual Spring Art Exhibition, in which the students displayed their artistic talents to an appreciative and enthusiastic public.

Junior Assistants Benefit Students And Teachers

Teachers needing papers typed or supplementary materials prepared and mimeographed, welcome the efforts of the Junior Assistant's Club, a service made up of competent junior girls in the Business Education course, whose purpose is to assist teachers with typing, duplicating, and filing.

The club has been beneficial to the teachers, by helping to decrease the ever-present paper work, and beneficial to the students, by providing added training in the fundamentals necessary for success in the business world.

Drill Team Enhances N.J.R.O.T.C. Program

In this first year of the Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, the Drill Team was conspicuous for its precision. This select group of twenty boys spent many afternoons preparing for the numerous activities in which they participated. Members learned the basics of Close Order Drill, and in striving for perfection, attained the satisfaction that accompanies mastery of complex skills.

Under the leadership of the Naval Science faculty, and the direct leadership of Cadets Robert Mann and Robert Carroll, the Drill Team marched in the Veterans' Day Parade and performed at the Thanksgiving Day football game at Winchester. In a year of many highlights, one that will remain memorable was the visit to the cruiser U.S.S. Boston at the Boston Naval Shipyard, a visit that gave the team a view of the modern navy.

Focus On World Problems

Formed to provide its members with a better understanding of the world in which we live, the International Relations Club focuses attention on the problems confronting the many and varied societies that make up the world community.

This year the members of the club attended a day-long seminar at Reading High School which was attended by representatives of over fifty high schools from all over New England. Guest speakers included representatives from the State Department, the Assistant Secretary of State for Latin America, and the assistant to roving American Ambassador Averill Harriman. Pertinent questioning after each presentation aided the members in clarifying their concepts of the problems facing our country.

Math Team Has Successful Second Year

Since 1967 was a successful year for the Math Team, Woburn High was advanced to a higher division in the Massachusetts Mathematics League. Despite the more intense competition, the ten members of the team did extremely well at their monthly meets. The four seniors, four juniors, and two sophomores were able not only to test their mathematical abilities in competition with nine other schools, but also to socialize with the other students. Meeting after school many times during the week in preparation for the contests gave the members valuable practice which culminated in many individual and team honors.

Creativity And Talent Displayed In 3 Original Plays

The Scribes and Drama Guild were united into one closely knit group of students this year. They combined originality and talent and the result proved very rewarding on the night of the three original one act plays.

Under the careful supervision and guardianship of Mrs. Dorothea Welling, the students spent many hours in careful writing and preparation. Then the actors were chosen for the various roles in the plays and once again the students were hard at work perfecting their individual acting abilities. The overwhelming turn-out on the night of the plays gave evidence that the students involved in this activity have great potential and much to offer as both writers and actors.

Fashion Club Fosters Poise And Good Taste

Poise, fashion techniques, and self improvement were the aims of the Hi-Teen Fashion Club this year. All senior girls who take the Home Economics course are invited to join this interesting activity.

Various speakers informed the girls of careers in fashion, the business world, and the airlines. Tips on proper beauty techniques were presented by representatives of different modeling agencies. The Simplicity Fashion Show demonstrated the latest in fashions, presented to the club members with twelve members of the Hi-Teen Club as models.

Debating Society Probes Timely Subjects

The debating society strove to teach the principles of argument to interested students through discussion and debate on timely subjects. The topic debated this year was; Resolved: "Electronic Listening Devices Should Be Further Regulated by the Federal Government."

In order to win his argument, a student had to master all the facts pertaining to his subject, thus in researching and presenting his subject, he learned not only about argument and debate, but current affairs as well.

Science Club Fosters Private Inquiry

Interested students of science, stimulated by classroom work and private inquiry, gather at meetings of the Science Club to further their quest for knowledge.

The works of especially ambitious and conscientious students are displayed at the massive annual Science Fair. The fair, in addition to encouraging personal inquiry, provides an opportunity for the general public and the student body to familiarize themselves with the scientific pursuits of a large number of students.

Interest Stimulated In Medical Fields

Guided by Mrs. Susan B. Vogel of the Biology Department, the Pre-Med-Biology Club is one of the most popular in the school. The main purpose of the club is to stimulate interest among students in the medical profession and in the various biological fields.

The highlight of this year's activities was a field trip to the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston where the club members viewed open heart surgery. In addition, the students toured the hospital's laboratory area. This trip has become an annual one, much to everyone's enjoyment, since the club's formation in 1965.

Assistance To Library

The Library Aids is a fairly new organization in the school. Its purpose is to speed up the processing of new materials in the school so that new books and materials are available to the faculty as early as possible.

The work is done in the library by the members during study periods. The members paste pockets and book plates in each book. Then each book is stamped to show it belongs to Harlow Library. Then books are covered with plastic jackets. After this the cards for each book are filed. The members also do other clerical jobs around the library.

Skills Developed For Business World

Distributive Education is a course offered by the Business Education Department where seniors attend classes in salesmanship and merchandising and receive practical training with such local merchants as Bradlee's, Zayre's, Sears Roebuck, Scott Distributors, Suppliers Automotive, Purity, Almy's, Aberjona Auto Parts and Cumming's Florist.

Distributive Education is a national program totaling ninety thousand students. The high school has had the program for two years, and has made an impressive showing in the yearly leadership conferences. In 1967 students won three awards for outstanding achievement in various areas of retailing, and Mr. Vincent Rivela, teacher-coordinator for the program, was very gratified by this class's performance at the conference held at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel in March.

G.A.A. Promotes Varsity And Intramural Sports

The selling of pillows at football games, an Initiation Party, and a trip to see a Celtic's game were some of the many activities of the G.A.A. this year. The G.A.A., through varsity and intramural sports such as flag football, field hockey, basketball, badminton, track, tennis, archery, and softball attempts to promote girls' athletics and social activities and gives recognition to deserving athletes. The very successful year was ended with the annual G.A.A. Banquet at which time awards were given to various worthy girl athletes.

New Challenges Met By The Nomad

For the past several years, Woburn High School has had a literary magazine of great quality. This school magazine, the Nomad, uses only material written by students of the school. The Literary Staff selects the best short stories, essays, and poems from those submitted by members of each class. The magazine also features art essays drawn by members of the Art Staff. The magazine published two issues and celebrated another successful year.

Sentorian Forges Into Controversial Issues

Trying to keep abreast with all the activities of the ever expanding school, the Sentorian members, under the direction of Mr. Paul G. Murphy, worked diligently to create a new look in Woburn High's newspaper. This year the staff undertook to examine more controversial items such as drugs, drinking and sex education.

This year the editors of the paper attended the New England Scholastic Press Association Convention where our paper received a certificate for meritous editing and writing.

Also, the Sentorian continued its practice of a newspaper exchange program, which involved trading newspapers with other schools.

Involvement Characterizes Theme Of '68 Innitou And Its Staff.

With the selection of a new advisor, Mr. Peter Dempsey, the members of the 1968 INNITOU staff have once again pledged their time and effort to the publication of a yearbook which traces the all-round growth of the members of the graduating class.

The contents of this book are mainly photographs depicting involvement—emotional, social, physical and intellectual. There is a definite purpose for the selection and layout of each picture and the staff members have spent many tedious hours in perfecting each page.

The purpose of the entire book is, however, of the utmost importance. It is meant to provide for the student a personal momento of his high school years and a means by which he can relive the past and enjoy once again, although not without some feeling of melancholy, his four years at Woburn High School.

". . . Never A Finer Bunch Of Boys."

The 1968 Tanner football team, coached by Walter White for the last time, turned in a fine performance against many capable teams. Although the 2–7 record does not indicate a particularly successful season, the '68 Tanners played spirited, determined football. Lack of size and experience were the Tanners two toughest obstacles to overcome and as a result the squad faired poorly during the early part of the season.

The Tanners faced Newburyport and Swampscott in the first two games and because of the opponents' talent and experience were badly beaten. As the season advanced, so did the Tanners in experience and desire for a win and by mid-season the Tanners were ready. In two hard-fought games, the Tanners successively defeated Danvers and Amesbury. The last two games, with Marblehead and Winchester, were again marked by determination and spirit, but WHS this time couldn't pull them out. They lost, but it took everything Marblehead and Winchester could muster to defeat them.

At the end of the season, the team was saddened to learn of Walter White's decision to retire as head coach in order to more fully devote himself to his job as Athletic Director. Although disappointed in the record, Coach White praised the '68 Tanners in saying, "I have never coached a finer bunch of boys."

Basketball

The basketball team, coached by Richard Skeffington, was hampered by a lack of height and strength off the backboards throughout the season, yet they were not lacking in hustle and spirit.

Effectively utilizing its greatest asset, team speed, the quintet constantly kept their taller opponents off stride with harassing man-to-man and zone presses.

Although a building year, basketball followers were impressed with the team's discipline and drive, after a one-point win over Newburyport early in the season, the team continued to improve and while often out-muscled under the backboards, they were never out classed.

Initial Aspirations Dimmed During Season

The 1967–68 edition of the Ice Tanners started their season with an upset win over highly regarded Marblehead, 2–1. The lofty visions brought forth by this victory were soon dashed by the rigors of a full season's play. Our fine team ended the season with a 5–11 record that mired them deep in the second division of the Northeast Conference.

All was not bleak, however, for only three seniors; Jim Gerety, Mike Finn, and Peter Krea donned the blades for Coach Connolly this year, and a seasoned veteran team returns.

Although our warrior's record was poor; their play was at time excellent, and usually good. Their terrier-like tenacity in battling a mighty Malden Catholic Sextet, and the eagle-like swiftness in attacking tournament bound Lynn English is cause for pride in the hearts of Tanner partisans.

Track, A Bright Spot

Led by Senior Bruce Blackburn and Captain Gerry Surette, the inexperienced cross country team, composed in the main of underclassmen, compiled a disappointing three five record.

Woburn's fortunes improved as indoor track produced a victorious season with six wins and three losses. Talented and adroit performances by Bruce Blackburn, conference champion in the two mile, and Junior Bob Murphy, league record holder in the fifty yard dash, added luster to winter track.

Dan Garvey, Tom Coleman, Dennis Pearson, and Dennis Doherty augmented the spring squad and brought a satisfying conclusion to Coach Tom Treacy's first season.

Hoopsters Enjoy Winning Season

Sparked by the stellar offensive play of Faith Milonas and Mary Finn, the inspired defensive efforts of Meg Higgins and Irene Campbell, the versatile play of Judy Connolly, and the scoring prowess of Lois Sullivan, the girls basketball team ended the season with 7 wins and 5 losses.

Highlights of the exacting season were a 23–21 victory over Winchester and a 26–20 loss to Swampscott. The win over Winchester served to show that last year's victory, the first in years, was not by happenstance. A tremendous team effort against Swamscott did not result in victory, but did serve to demonstrate that Swampscott's long domination of the hoopsters is about over.

Aspirations for next year's edition of the hoopsterettes is high, as the junior varsity ended the season with 10 wins and 2 losses, a fair indication that the girls' winning ways will be continued.

Early April marked the beginning of strenuous practice sessions for the members of the Girl's Softball team. A month of calesthenics proved beneficial to the girls both physically and mentally.

Co-captains Irene Campbell and Mary Finn provided the initial spark necessary for a good performance both at the plate and on the field.

Precision Through Practice

After three years of experimentation and endless practice sessions, the tumbling team of twelve talented girls under the patient guidance of Miss Geraldine Wegener, has perfected its gymnastic abilities and the group is now recognized as one of the best teams in the area.

The intricate formations achieved by the team are now a feature at half-time festivities of the football games, at rallies, and at local parades and celebrations.

The senior girls who are the nucleus of this outstanding new school function deserve the recognition they are receiving as pioneers in an activity that has brought great distinction to their class and the school.

Golfers Play Above Par

Continuing its winning ways, the Golf team finished its fifth consecutive season above the .500 mark.

Led by Co-Captains Barrie Robertson, Jim Gerety, and Mike Tracey, all three-year lettermen, the squad benefited from great depth and experience. All members had at least one year of competition at the varsity level. In addition, Coach Fedele credited the favorable practice conditions at the Woburn Country Club with having been a decisive factor in the team's success.

One of the year's many high points was Jim Gerety, a finalist in last year's State Schoolboy Competition, setting a school record by successfully qualifying in the tournament for the third consecutive year.

Almost—The Impossible Dream!

A successful season with an 8–1–2 record was the award for the long hard hours of practice put in by the Field Hockey Squad. Memorable games against Lynnfield, Winchester, and Swampscott emphasized the team spirit and will-to-win manifested by the girls.

Graduation losses of Co-Captains Chris Peary and Elaine Martello and defensive stalwarts Irene Campbell, Margaret Robert, Lois Sullivan, and Mary Finn should be ably compensated for by the returning scoring talent headed by Mal Keeley, Terry Greene, Paula Mullen, Ann Higgins, and Judy Connolly.

"Ladder Technique" Improves Girl's Tennis

Excellent coordination and physical conditioning are essential in the development of a good tennis player. Miss Geraldine Wegener, coach of the girls' tennis team, has succeeded in achieving this goal by means of the "ladder" technique.

As in previous years, the "ladder" system has provided valuable training as well as competitive spirit to help spark the team to more decisive victories. Through this method, each girl on the team has an equal opportunity to improve her technique and challenge the player ranked above her. If her challenge is successful, she will occupy the higher position on the ladder. It is obvious from the team's results that this innovation has greatly improved the performances of the girls.

Spirited Run For The Championship

With the nucleus of a strong team that had finished in a tie for second place in the Northeastern Conference in 1967 returning, Coach Paul Sweeney's prediction of a winning season was realized.

A tight defense, anchored by Don Queenin at second base, and Ken Busa at first base, provided the needed support that enabled Dave Middleton, Don Clapp, and Busa to have successful seasons at the mound.

Talented underclassmen demonstrated that spirit and pride in performance can compensate for limited varsity experience. Striving together as an effective unit, rather than as a collection of individuals, the 1968 baseball team gave evidence that competition and sportsmanship are the most worthwhile products of high school sports.

National Honor Society

To give distinction to the members of the Senior Class who possess the qualities of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service is the purpose of the National Honor Society. The goal of the Honor Society is to provide not only recognition of past deeds, but also to stimulate incentive to further Scholastic accomplishment, to give Service to the community, and to set an example of Leadership and Character.

The members of the National Honor Society should not be viewed as individuals but as a complete body striving for advancement. They are the personification of the ideal qualities which compose their generation. The manifestation of these qualities of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service help to establish a better society.

WOMEN'S CLUB REPRESENTATIVES: Kathryn Foley, Valerie Murdza, Marylou McMahan, Elaine DiCenzo, Kathleen Logue, Lee Nelson.

Women's Club Representatives

At the regular meetings of the Woburn Women's Club, six honor students represented the high school. Enjoying lunch and the varied programs presented enabled the students to become better acquainted with the social and cultural offerings of the community. Attendance gives meaning to the definition of "woman" in a modern society.

Junior Rotarians

Through attendance at bimonthly luncheon meetings at the Towanda Club, Junior Rotarians are introduced to civic leaders and become aware of the community's concerns. These outstanding school citizens are selected on the basis of scholarship and participation in school functions. Members of the Rotary hope that exposure to the ideals exemplified by this service organization will carry into the students' adult life.

OUR ENTRANCE INTO THE COMMUNITY DOES NOT MEAN THE END OF
EDUCATION, BUT RATHER THE END OF THE
BEGINNING . . .

Acknowledgements

Our theme, the development of the teenager into a physically, socially, mentally, and emotionally mature young adult, has tried to represent what four years of high school has meant to us. We, the 1968 Innitou staff, hope that this book is an accurate portrayal of Woburn High School.

We would like to express our deepest gratitude to all those who have given their time, experience, and talent in producing this book.

First of all, we wish to thank the Warren Kay Vantine Studio for their excellent work on portrait and candid photographs. To Mrs. Camille Johnson, who so patiently and efficiently procured photographers, mailed photographs, and gave so much help, we extend our deepest appreciation.

Next, to the American Yearbook Company for publication of this volume, and to Mr. Richard Weir, their sales representative for his valuable and practical advice, we say a special "thank-you".

Thirdly, to the Woburn Daily Times who publicized the annual patron and advertising drive, helping to assure a successful fund-raising campaign, we express our gratitude.

To the Administration and Faculty goes our expression of gratitude for their continuing cooperation throughout the year. Especially to Mr. William Hosmer, literary advisor, who gave so much time and knowledge to the literary staff, goes our deepest gratitude and thanks.

We wish to acknowledge all the long hours and hard work of our dedicated yearbook staff who gave so much to produce this book.

To our editors, Linda Dodge, Paul Flaherty, and Barbara McGettrick for long hours spent photographing events, composing pages, and writing copy we are especially grateful. They led by example, they showed us how.

Most of all, the staff wishes to thank Mr. Peter L. Dempsey, our advisor, for his patience, understanding, time, and talents.

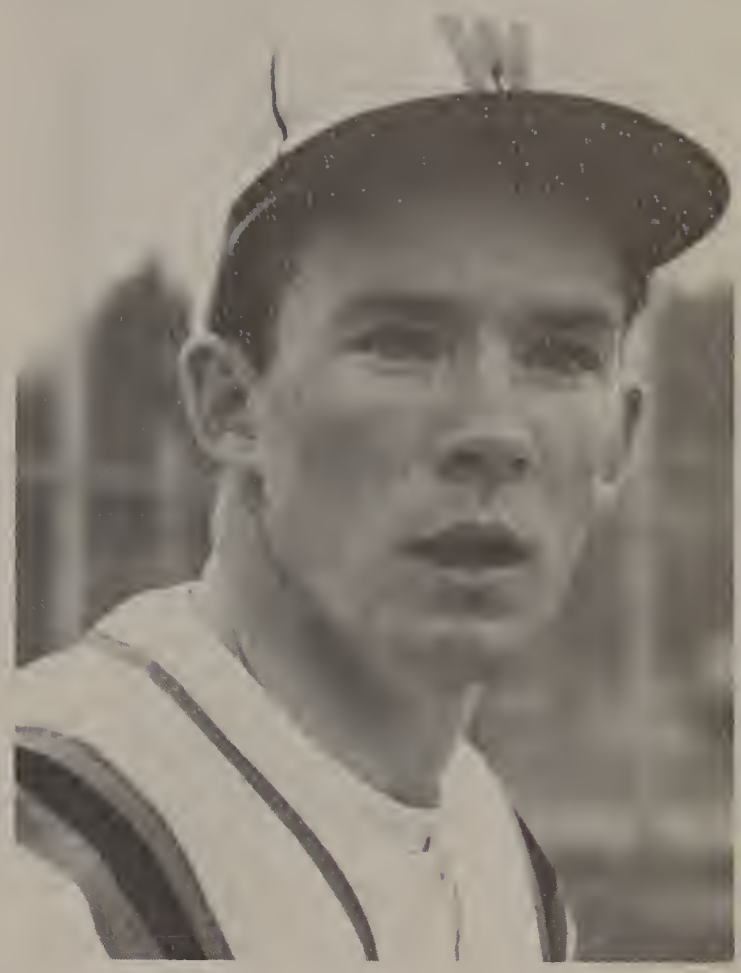

The completion of the 1968 Innitou could not have been made possible if it were not for the support of the citizens and businessmen of the city. We say "thank you" for supporting our patron and advertising drive.

Lastly, we indicate our appreciation to the members of the class of 1968 who form the essence of our yearbook. To them we say thank you and wish them good fortune.

WINN'S EXPRESS

20 Prospect St., Woburn

933–2260

One night, in ancient times, three horsemen were riding across a desert. As they crossed the dry bed of a river, out of the darkness a voice called, "Halt!"

They obeyed. The voice then told them to dismount, pick up a handful of pebbles, put the pebbles in their pockets and remount.

The voice then said, "You have done as I commanded. Tomorrow at sun-up you will be both glad and sorry." Mystified, the horsemen rode on.

When the sun rose, they reached into their pockets and found that a miracle had happened. The pebbles had been transformed into diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones. They remembered the warning. They were both glad and sorry—glad they had taken some, and sorry they had not taken more . . .

And this is a story of Education.

Dr. L. H. Adolfson

I, Donna Wilson, leave my heart to Woburn High School.
